HISTORICAL SKETCH

The Creighton University, founded in 1878, takes its name from Edward Creighton, one of the pioneers of the West, who died intestate on November 5, 1874, leaving his wife Mary Lucretia Creighton, his sole heir. Though free to use her fortune as she pleased, she determined to carry out the oft-expressed intention of her late husband to found a free college for boys, and in her will, dated September 23, 1875, she bequeathed One Hundred Thousand Dollars for this purpose "as a memorial of my late husband." Mrs. Creighton died on January 23, 1876.

Count John A. Creighton, brother of Edward, was one of the executors of Mrs. Creighton's will. Loyally discharging his trust, he watched the new institution gradually take form and became, in time, its largest benefactor, leaving it, on his death (which occurred February 7, 1907) with a substantial endowment and a plant comprising eight large buildings specially constructed for educational purposes.

The University, which was the outgrowth of the College, now includes a Preparatory Course, as well as Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Law, Medicine, Dentistry and Pharmacy. Thanks to the Creighton generosity, tuition is free in the Preparatory Course and the College of Arts; the charges are moderate in the Professional schools. The University's enrollment, including the Summer Session, was 1,270 for the year 1916-1917; the alumni number about two thousand. Under the terms of the foundation the Preparatory Course and College of Arts are open only to men, but the professional schools are co-educational. While the control of the University is vested in the Jesuits—one of the teaching orders of the Catholic Church—no distinction is made as to creed or race in any of the departments.

The College of Law was opened in 1904 in temporary quarters provided by the College of Medicine, and removed the following year to its present building, The Edward Creighton Institute, which was erected by the University for educational purposes and is now the home of the Colleges of Law and Dentistry. The law school occupies about one-half of the building and has every facility for the proper conduct of its work, including electric elevator, gas and electric lights, hot and cold water and toilet rooms on every floor, locker rooms, students' lobby, smoking and lounging rooms, commodious lecture halls, social rooms, offices for the faculty, assembly halls suitable for social gatherings, public functions, meetings of class organizations, etc. The lecture halls, of which there are three, are well lighted and ventilated, and every effort has been made to surround the students with conditions the most favorable for study.

PURPOSE AND SCOPE

The object of the course offered is to fit the graduates for practice in any place where the common law prevails. While the historical development of the law is patiently traced, and due attention is paid to the cultivation of the so-called "legal-mind," the practical phase of the law is not forgotten, and no opportunity is lost to so prepare the students that they may, on graduation, engage successfully in the practice of their profession.

The teaching is in the hands of full-time men and practitioners. thus insuring a well-balanced course, and the ideal of the schooleffective preparation for the bar-is measurably attained. Emphasis is put upon the importance of careful daily work, and by frequent quiz, required attendance and written examinations, thoroughness is constantly inculcated. As the classes are broken up into manageable sections, the maximum of personal contact between teachers and students is secured; questions are encouraged, difficulties are explained and a proper combination of knowledge and training is attempted. policy of the school is not to graduate men whose memories are stocked with legal rules, but to so prepare its students that they will have some idea of the genius of the common law, a love and a capacity for study, and an ethical standard which will encourage adherence to the best traditions of the bar. Latent qualities of leadership are developed and every opportunity is afforded the earnest student to make the most of his talents, not only for his own personal gratification and profit, but particularly for the welfare of his fellows.

The school is located a half block from the Douglas County Court House, where seven divisions of the District Court and the County Court are constantly in session; four blocks from the Federal Building where the United States District Court holds its sessions, eight blocks from the Police Court, and within from one to two blocks of the various Justice of the Peace and Municipal Courts. The students thus have every opportunity to observe the practical workings of the law as exhibited in the trial of cases, the probate of estates, etc., and, for those who find leisure, the many law offices of the city, most of them within two blocks of the school, afford still further opportunities for gaining a practical knowledge of the conduct of a law office.

Instruction is offered in both day and evening classes, the day course covering three years and the evening course four years. The professors, books, methods of instruction, entrance, attendance and graduation requirements are the same in both courses. The evening classes have been in operation since September 1, 1909, and experience proves their success. In effect they are merely evening sections of the regular classes and day standards are maintained.

METHOD OF INSTRUCTION

The Case System is followed, though each teacher is free to adapt it in such a manner as will, in his judgment, prove most effective. There are no elective courses; each student must take the work prescribed, the theory of the school being that the faculty is better qualified than the students to determine which courses are essential, and that an elective system may result in graduation without even an elementary knowledge of topics which are indispensable to thorough preparation. Moreover the proper sequence of the various subjects is thus secured and the whole course unfolds gradually with the maximum of training and knowledge and the minimum of time and effort.

Thoroughness is not sacrificed and due emphasis is put upon the importance of careful analysis, but neither is proper breadth overlooked, and the students are trained, as far as possible, in the whole body of the fundamental law. Exhaustive investigation of reliable source material is encouraged and scant courtesy is paid to mere assumption; the law is presented as a plastic body of principles capable of infinite variety both in statement and application, not as a hard and fast code to be memorized as if it were incapable of further development. As far as possible, the student is trained to rely upon his own industry and intelligence in discovering the law, and not to accept it upon the ipse dixit of the staff.

Mere method is not idealized and the law's content receives due emphasis to the end that the graduate may bring to his work as a practitioner not only a zeal for thoroughness and an intensely critical attitude toward arbitrary statement of the law, but also a working knowledge of the repositories of the law and of the practical methods by which legal wrongs are to be redressed. As far as may be the lawyer's attitude and the atmosphere of court and office are given prominent place in the interest of efficiency; customary preparatory school-room methods, ideals and viewpoints do not prevail.

MOOT COURTS

A comprehensive system of Moot Courts is maintained and the various stages of litigation are illustrated. The class-room instruction in Pleading, Trial Practice, Evidence, Criminal Procedure, Justice Practice and Probate Procedure is supplemented by required work in the practice courts which are divided into four sections: one devoted to Justice and Probate work; one to jurisdiction in chambers, equity trials and preliminary matters; one to the conduct of jury cases, both civil and criminal; and the other to the hearing of cases on appeal.

Justice and Probate work is assigned to the Juniors as attorneys, the cases being tried on prepared statements of fact. District Court cases are tried by the Seniors, with the Juniors acting as witnesses and the Freshmen as jurors. In the Appellate Court the Seniors sit as Associate Justices with a member of the Faculty presiding as Chief Justice; each Associate must write an opinion in two cases. Senior cases are based on actual court records and are made to conform, as far as possible, to the reality. Pleadings are filed, process issued, motions and demurrers argued, witnesses examined, exhibits introduced, objections made, exceptions taken, instructions prepared, trial briefs written, and orders drawn for signature by the Judge of the Court. On appeal, each attorney is required to file a carefully written brief which he must supplement by oral argument to the Court. Every seession of the various courts is presided over by a member of the faculty and the entire course of practice must be satisfactorily completed by every candidate for a degree. Attendance at the jury trials is compulsory for every student in the school, and a written report must be presented by each student upon each case tried. As there are about fifteen such cases per year, the graduate will have attended from forty to forty-five cases during his course and will thus have familiarized himself with the proper method of conducting jury trials. Interest is keen in the litigation and an atmosphere of serious attention pervades the work.

The school has two court rooms, each furnished with all the necessary equipment for the proper handling of litigated questions. Court Room No. 1 has a seating capacity of two hundred, and is provided with a large cherry bench, the original cost of which was $6,700; Court Room No. 2, which is used for equity proceedings, and the hearing of preliminary matters as well as for justice, probate and appellate work, is furnished with thirty-six swivel arm chairs and a smaller cherry bench. These court rooms owe their elaborate furnishings to a favorable contract made a few years ago with the County Commissioners of Douglas County from whom the furniture, fixtures and fittings of the seven court rooms in the old Douglas County Court House were secured.

PUBLIC SPEAKING, PARLIAMENTARY LAW AND CONTEMPORARY LEGISLATION

The course on Parliamentary Law, which is of obligation for all Freshmen, is intended to prepare the students for the work of the Model House, a miniature legislative assembly, which is organized along the lines of the National House of Representatives and the Lower House of the State Legislature.

At the close of the school-year a Speaker, Chief Clerk and Journal Clerk are elected by the students from among their number for the following year. These officers, in conjunction with the various committees appointed by the speaker, are responsible for the work of the house. The course on Parliamentary Law is given by a member of the faculty who is also present at every meeting of the House to give his advice when appealed to.

Every student in the school must attend and participate in the work of the house. At the opening session, the Speaker announces the districts which the members are to represent and the committees to which the various bills introduced are referred. The Speaker presides at each session but turns the chair over to members of the Senior Class during the deliberations of the Committee of the whole.

Each member of the upper classes is required to draft and introduce two bills at each session. The bills presented by the Seniors for discussion during the first half of the session must be prepared during the summer vacation for committee action shortly after school opens. As only subjects of importance in the field of contemporary legislation are considered, the Seniors in charge of the various bills obtain a great deal of experience at Committee meetings in the attempt to have bills moulded as they desire. This necessitates a careful study of the existing law and of the defects to be remedied and affords no end of valuable training in marshalling one's facts, and clearly presenting them in the attempt to persuade the committee to take the desired action.

All bills must pass through the hands of the Sifting Committee which selects those likely to prove most valuable for discussion. Once the selection is made, the designated bills are made special order for a particular day and three members of the House are appointed to support and three to oppose the measure. When their debate has closed, the bills are thrown open for general discussion and for such action as the members think fit.

The House as organized and conducted serves several very useful purposes: it gives opportunity for practicing parliamentary law; imparts a fair knowledge of contemporary problems in legislation; gives effective drill in committee work; teaches those who are to enforce the law the method by which laws are made; and provides incentive and opportunity for improving oneself in the art of public speaking.

LIBRARY FACILITIES

The law library owned by the school comprises over ten thousand volumes and includes the following collections: Official reports of all the states to the Reporter System; continuations of ten principal state reports to date; Reporter System Complete; Lawyers' Reports Annotated, both series; American Reports; American Decisions; American State Reports; English Ruling Cases; British Ruling Cases; English Reports Annotated; American & English Annotated Cases; Federal Reporter; Federal Cases; Supreme Court Reporter; Supreme Court Reports; Rose's Notes; complete English Reprint with continuations; Canada Supreme Court Reports; Dominion Law Reports; Irish Reports; Scott's Revised Reports; Halsbury's Laws of England; Chitty's English Statutes; Law Reports Statutes; Mew's English Digest; Century Digest, Decennial Digest, Annual Continuations; Corpus Juris; Ruling Case Law; American and English Encyclopaedia of Law, first and second editions: Cyclopaedia of Law and Procedure: Encyclopaedia of Pleading and Practice; Encyclopaedia of Evidence; Encyclopaedia of Forms; United States Statutes at Large; United States Compiled Statutes; Federal Statutes Annotated; a considerable amount of statutory and periodical literature as well as a large collection of text books.

Students have direct access to most of the books,—the others they may secure on ticket for use either in the library rooms or at home. About five thousand dollars a year is spent in the purchase of new books for the library. The importance of a working knowledge of law books is emphasized by the course on Legal Bibliography which is of obligation for every student. The purpose is to familiarize the class with the most thorough and quickest methods of securing the law upon a given point and to this end the lectures are supplemented by careful drill in the library. The preparation of trial briefs and of briefs on appeal in the Moot Courts affords additional opportunity for becoming acquainted with the books and experience shows that the facility thus gained is of very great practical value to the graduates.

In addition to this law library, the students may enjoy the use of the Omaha Public Library (two blocks distant from the school) containing more than one hundred thousand volumes.

ARRANGEMENT OF HOURS

The day course embraces three years of thirty-seven weeks each; the evening course four years of thirty-seven weeks each. lectures are given from Monday to Friday inclusive, beginning at eight o'clock in the morning and ending at ten, eleven, or twelve o'clock according to the schedule for the particular day; the evening lectures are given from Monday to Friday inclusive, beginning at 6:20 o'clock and ending at eight or eight-thirty o'clock, according to the schedule for the particular evening.

The sessions of Division No. 1 of the Moot Court are held at eight o'clock on Friday evening from October to March, and attendance is required on the part of all students; the sessions of Division No. 2 are held at nine o'clock on Monday and Friday mornings from October to March, and attendance is required on the part of all second and third-vear men.

The Model House, attendance at which is compulsory for all students, meets on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock from October to March. Committee meetings are subject to call of the Chairman.

ADMISSION TO THE COLLEGE OF LAW

No student will be admitted to the law classes unless he is at least eighteen years old.

Graduates of recognized colleges requiring at least thirty high school credits for admission, will be received as candidates for the degree, as will also students who have satisfactorily completed one year's work in such a college in addition to four years of high school instruction.

Graduates of four-year High School courses will also be registered as candidates for the degree, provided the applicants are at least twenty-five years old at time of matriculation in the law school.

Graduates of four-year High School courses who are not twentyone years old at date of matriculation in the law school will be required to take the pre-legal course before being registered as candidates for degrees.

Applicants at least twenty-one and who are not comprised in the above classes will be received as Special Students at the discretion of the faculty. No Special Student may become an applicant for a degree.

The four-year High School course above referred to must include thirty credits, one credit being given for work in a High School subject of five recitations a week, of not less than forty minutes each, during a period of at least eighteen weeks. Conditional registration will be permitted upon twenty-eight credits in lieu of the required thirty, the additional two credits to be made up before registration as a member of the next higher class.

In no event will an aplicant be registered as a candidate for the degree until there has been filed in the office of the dean a proper certificate showing in detail the preliminary training of the student. Blank forms for this purpose are provided for the use of preparatory schools. Persons intending to register in the College of Law for the first time should make early application, on a blank which may be secured from the office. It is important that the application be filed as early as possible in order that proper credentials may be obtained from the preparatory schools before the student presents himself for matriculation.

Intending applicants are urged to take as much History, English, Political Economy and foreign language as possible in preparation for the law course.

REGISTRATION

No new student may register for first semester credit after October 13th or for second semester credit after February 14th.

No former student may register more than ten days after the reopening of classes in either semester.

ADVANCED STANDING

Students presenting proper credentials from law schools belonging to the Association of American Law Schools will be received as members of that class for which their previous training fits them, providing their preliminary education satisfies the demands of the school as outlined under the preceding section entitled "Admission." Students presenting proper credentials from law schools not members of the Association of American Law Schools will be admitted, upon examination, to that class for which their record shows them to be fitted. No credit will be given for office or correspondence study. In no event will advanced credit be given for more than two-thirds of the course required from students who have done all of their work in this school. No degree will be conferred upon any student who has not spent an entire school-year in the College of Law.

PRE-LEGAL STUDENTS

High School graduates who present satisfactory evidence of having earned thirty high school credits may register in the Freshman class of the College of Arts. No pre-legal student may take any instruction in law for credit. No tuition is charged in the College of Arts, but each student must provide his own books and pay an annual fee of twelve dollars, covering the use of the gymnasium, admission to the University athletic events, and the Glee Club concerts, as well as a year's subscription to the Creighton Chronicle and the Creighton Courier.

COMBINED SIX-YEAR COURSE

Students who are able to satisfy the entrance requirements of the College of Arts may enroll for both the Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws degrees. During their first two years in the University, only work of college grade may be carried, but during both the Junior and Senior years, one-half of the Freshman law course may be taken, the degree Bachelor of Arts being confierred at the end of the fourth year of successful work. During the last two years of the Six-Year Course, the students confine themselves to law studies, on satisfactory completion of which the degree Bachelor of Laws will be conferred.

ATTENDANCE

Attendance at ninety per cent of the work of each subject is required, but an additional ten per cent of absence will be excused for good cause upon proper showing. Students failing of the required attendance will be conditioned; the condition can be removed only by attaining a satisfactory grade in the next regular examination after the condition is imposed. The right to remove such condition in this manner rests within the discretion of the faculty. No student will be permitted to register as a regular member of the next higher class if he has more than two conditions against him, one condition being imposed for each failure to attain a passing grade in any subject, or to attend the required per cent of the work given.

The faculty reserves the right to sever any student's connection with the school whenever, in their judgment, such action is advisable. No tuition will be refunded on the departure of any student from the school, whatever the cause of his departure may be. However, students who leave because of illness will be credited with the unused portion of their tuition, which will be available on their return.

EXAMINATIONS

Written examinations are held at the end of each semester; students attaining a satisfactory grade will not be required to pass any other examination in the same subject matter, unless to remove a time condition. Students failing to attain a passing grade will be conditioned, the condition being removable by satisfactory re-examination; if the grade for a course be below sixty per cent, the student must repeat the subject in class. No student will be permitted to graduate until he has removed all conditions, or to advance to the work of the second or third year as a regular student, if there be two or more conditions against him, whether for failure in examination or lack of required attendance.

Examinations to remove conditions will be given at the opening of the school-year; no special examinations will be held.

DEGREE

The degree Bachelor of Laws (LL. B.) is conferred upon:

1st. Students who, having satisfied the entrance requirements, have completed the full course of instruction in the College of Law;

2nd. Those who, having been regularly admitted to advanced standing, have satisfactorily completed that part of the course for which they were not given credit on entrance.

TUITION AND FEES

The annual charge for instruction, including the use of a set of books, is One Hundred and Forty-five Dollars in the Day Classes and One Hundred and Twenty Dollars in the Night Classes, payable as follows: First semester Day, Eighty-five Dollars; Night, Sixty Dollars; second semester, Day or Night, Sixty Dollars. Each student also receives without additional expense, a ticket giving him the use of the gymnasium, admission to the various University athletic and musical events, as well as a year's subscription to the University magazine and paper.

All bills are due and payable within ten days after the beginning of the particular semester. Students who wish to pay in installments may do so upon condition that all payments are made before the commencement of the semester examinations. Deferred payments will be subject to an additional charge of Five Dollars per semester. A special charge of Three Dollars will be made for late registration.

LIVING EXPENSES

Board and lodging may be had for $20.00 and upward per month, depending on the tastes of the individual. Suitable rooming places may be found within a ten minutes' walk of the school; meals may be obtained either by the week at nearby boarding houses, for about Four Dollars per week, or in the many restaurants and cafes of the city at prices varying with the patron's choice. Furnished rooms may be had at from Seven Dollars per month upward for one occupant, or Ten Dollars per month upward for two persons.

The cost of clothing, laundry, incidentals, board and room, need not be more than Three Hundred Dollars per year, but of course, will depend upon the habits of the individual.

SELF SUPPORT

Omaha affords such opportunities for student employment as are to be found in cities of its size, with this advantage that the student population bears a smaller proportion to the total number of inhabitants than in many college towns. The school is located near the heart of the city's retail mercantile and office-building section, where hundreds of people are employed at positions suitable for students. Alert, deserving, experienced men have, as a rule, little difficulty in finding a desirable place, at least after they have been on the ground for a few weeks. Intending students are cautioned, however, not to come empty-handed; the school does not guarantee positions, though it will be glad to help as much as possible. To this end, a Bureau of Information has been established for the free use of self-supporting students.

SCHOLARSHIP, PRIZES AND HONORS

To the students of the Freshman and Junior day classes, and of the Freshman, Sophomore and Junior evening classes, who attain the highest general average for the work of their respective group, provided such average is at least ninety per cent, and the student has attended at least ninety per cent of the work of his class, a free scholarship good for one year's tuition will be given. The names of the successful students will be announced within the first ten days of the school-year succeeding that in which the scholarships were merited.

In 1916-1917 the Day Junior scholarship was awarded to Leo J. Hanley and the Evening Sophomore scholarship to Harvie A. Garver.

Through the kindness of Callaghan & Company of Chicago, a book prize, consisting of the Cyclopaedic Law Dictionary is offered to that day junior who attains the highest general average for his class, provided he also satisfies the attendance requirement. On the same terms through the kindness of The American Law Book Company, there is offered to the leader of the graduating class, a prize consisting of a complete forty-volume set of the Cyclopaedia of Law and Procedure, with its annual annotations to date. Last year this prize was awarded to Mr. Edward J. Svoboda.

The degree Cum Laude is conferred upon such members of the Senior class as attain a general average of ninety per cent or more, provided they have also satisfied the attendance requirement. In 1916 the Cum Laude degree was conferred upon Edward J. Svoboda, Vere A. Morgan, Edward F. Dougherty, Carl C. Cowles, Francis A. Silver, Daniel J. Gross, Edward P. McDonald.

STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS AND ATHLETIC PRIVILEGES

The University Glee Club, Orchestra and Band are open to law students who desire to develop their musical talents. The Band appears at all of the foot-ball games and the Orchestra and Glee Club give one or more formal as well as several informal concerts during the year.

Both the Delta Theta Phi and Gamma Eta Gamma Legal Fraternities have local chapters in the school. The 'Varsity Mixers' Club which has charge of all University dances and the 'Varsity Boosters' Club, which takes a prominent part in foot-ball demonstrations, are open to law students.

The new gymnasium recently completed on the Arts campus offers exceptional opportunities for healthful exercise and recreation as well as for participation in athletic events. The building and equipment cost about One Hundred and Forty Thousand Dollars. A physical director has charge of the gymnasium and will cheerfully co-operate with the students in enabling them to secure the utmost of advantage from this latest addition to the university facilities. Hand-ball, squash, bowling, wrestling, boxing, running, jumping, billiards, swimming and aquatic contests, basket ball, and the various other pastimes appropriate to a university gymnasium are amply provided for. Each student may receive a physical examination and expert advice as to the kind of exercise he needs, and, if adapted for the 'varsity sports, will be given a chance to compete for a place.

ADMISSION TO THE BAR

The Nebraska legislature of 1907 passed a bill permitting law schools approved by the Supreme Court to present their graduates for admission on motion without examination, provided that no school should be accorded this privilege which was not a member of the Association of American Law Schools. The following copy of a decree of the Nebraska Supreme Court, under date of December 3, 1907, is self-explanatory:

SUPREME COURT OF NEBRASKA, September term, 1907.

Dec. 3.

In the Matter of the Creighton College of Law:

Now, on this third day of December, 1907, this matter having come on to be heard on the application of The Creighton University, and the showing filed in support thereof, the Court finds:

First—That Creighton College of Law is a department of The Creighton University.

Second—That said Creighton College of Law is a college of law in this state, having entrance requirements and a course of study equal and equivalent to those of the law school of the University of Nebraska.

Third—The said Creighton College of Law is a member of the Association of American Law Schools.

It is therefore considered and ordered by the Court that Creighton College of Law be, and the same hereby is designated as a college of law whose graduates shall be admitted to the bar without examination.

(Signed) S. H. SEDGWICK,

Chief Justice.

HISTORICAL SKETCH

The Creighton University, founded in 1878, takes its name from Edward Creighton, one of the pioneers of the West, who died intestate on November 5, 1874, leaving his wife Mary Lucretia Creighton, his sole heir. Though free to use her fortune as she pleased, she determined to carry out the oft-expressed intention of her late husband to found a free college for boys, and in her will, dated September 23, 1875, she bequeathed One Hundred Thousand Dollars for this purpose "as a memorial of my late husband." Mrs. Creighton died on January 23, 1876.

Count John A. Creighton, brother of Edward, was one of the executors of Mrs. Creighton's will. Loyally discharging his trust, he watched the new institution gradually take form and became, in time, its largest benefactor, leaving it, on his death (which occurred February 7, 1907), with a substantial endowment and a plant comprising eight large buildings specially constructed for educational purposes.

The University, which was the outgrowth of the College, now includes a Preparatory Course, as well as Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Law, Medicine, Dentistry and Pharmacy. Thanks to the Creighton generosity, tuition is free in the Preparatory Course and the College of Arts; the charges are moderate in the Professional schools. The University's enrollment, including the Summer Session, was 1,052 for the year 1917-1918; the alumni number about two thousand. Under the terms of the foundation the Preparatory Course and College of Arts are open only to men, but the professional schools are co-educational. While the control of the University is vested in the Jesuits—one of the teaching orders of the Catholic Church—no distinction is made as to creed or race in any of the departments.

The College of Law was opened in 1904 in temporary quarters provided by the College of Medicine, and removed the following year to its present building, The Edward Creighton Institute, which was erected by the University for educational purposes and is now the home of the Colleges of Law and Dentistry. The law school occupies about one-half of the building and has every facility for the proper conduct of its work, including electric elevator, gas and electric lights, hot and cold water and toilet rooms on every floor, locker rooms, students' lobby, smoking and lounging rooms, commodious lecture halls, social rooms, offices for the faculty, assembly halls suitable for social gatherings, public functions, meetings of class organizations, etc. The lecture halls, of which there are three, are well lighted and ventilated, and every effort has been made to surround the students with conditions the most favorable for study.

PURPOSE AND SCOPE

The object of the course offered is to fit the graduate for practice in any place where the common law prevails. While the historical development of the law is patiently traced, and due attention is paid to the cultivation of the so-called "legal-mind," the practical phase of the law is not forgotten, and no opportunity is lost to so prepare the students that they may, on graduation, engage successfully in the practice of their profession.

The teaching is for the most part in the hands of full-time men, but certain courses are taught by practitioners, thus insuring a wellbalanced course, and the ideal of the school-effective preparation for the bar-is measurably attained. Emphasis is put upon the importance of careful daily work, and by frequent quiz, required attendance and written examinations, thoroughness is constantly inculcated. classes are broken up into manageable sections, the maximum of personal contact between teachers and students is secured; questions are encouraged, difficulties are explained and a proper combination of knowledge and training is attempted. The policy of the school is not to graduate men whose memories are stocked with legal rules, but to so prepare its students that they will have some idea of the genius of the common law, a love and a capacity for study, and an ethical standard which will encourage adherence to the best traditions of the bar. Latent qualities of leadership are developed and every opportunity is afforded the earnest student to make the most of his talents, not only for his own personal gratification and profit, but particularly for the welfare of his fellows.

The school is located a half block from the Douglas County Court House, where seven divisions of the District Court and the County Court are constantly in session; four blocks from the Federal Building where the United States District Court holds its sessions, eight blocks from the Police Court, and within from one to two blocks of the Justice of the Peace and Municipal Courts. The students thus have every opportunity to observe the practical workings of the law as exhibited in the trial of cases, the probate of estates, etc., and for those who find leisure, the many law offices of the city, most of them within two blocks of the school, afford still further opportunities for gaining a practical knowledge of the conduct of a law office.

Instruction is offered in both day and evening classes, the day course covering three years and the evening course four years. The evening classes, which have been in operation since September 1, 1909, do not lead to a degree but serve admirably both to prepare for bar examinations and to give persons engaged in business those special helps which are to be found only in the law.

METHOD OF INSTRUCTION

The Case System is followed, though each teacher is free to adapt it in such a manner as will, in his judgment, prove most effective. For the most part the work is prescribed, though certain elections are allowed as shown on pages 18-20.

Thoroughness is not sacrificed and due emphasis is put upon the importance of careful analysis, but neither is proper breadth overlooked, and the students are trained, as far as possible, in the whole body of the fundamental law. Exhaustive investigation of reliable source material is encouraged and scant courtesy is paid to mere assumption; the law is presented as a plastic body of principles capable of infinite variety both in statement and application, not as a hard and fast code to be memorized as if it were incapable of further development. As far as possible, the student is trained to rely upon his own industry and intelligence in discovering the law, and not to accept it upon the ipse dixit of the staff.

Mere method is not idealized and the law's content receives due emphasis to the end that the graduate may bring to his work as a practitioner not only a zeal for thoroughness and an intensely critical attitude toward arbitrary statement of the law, but also a working knowledge of the repositories of the law and of the practical methods by which legal wrongs are to be redressed. As far as may be, the lawyer's attitude and the atmosphere of court and office are given prominent place in the interest of efficiency; customary preparatory school-room methods, ideals and viewpoints do not prevail.

MOOT COURTS

A comprehensive system of Moot Courts is maintained and the various stages of litigation are illustrated. The class room instruction in Pleading, Trial Practice, Evidence, Criminal Procedure, Justice Practice and Probate Procedure is supplemented by required work in the practice courts which are divided into four sections: one devoted to Justice and Probate work; one to jurisdiction in chambers, equity trials and preliminary matters; one to the conduct of jury cases, both civil and criminal; and the other to the hearing of cases on appeal.

Justice and Probate work is assigned to the Juniors as attorneys, the cases being tried on prepared statements of fact. District Court cases are tried by the Seniors, with the Juniors acting as witnesses and the Freshmen as jurors. In the Appellate Court the Seniors sit as Associate Justices with a member of the Faculty presiding as Chief Justice: each Associate must write an opinion in two cases. Senior cases are based on actual court records and are made to conform, as far as possible, to the reality. Pleadings are filed, process issued, motions and demurrers argued, witnesses examined, exhibits introduced, objections made, exceptions taken, instructions prepared, trial briefs written, and orders drawn for signature by the Judge of the Court. On appeal, each attorney is required to file a carefully written brief which he must supplement by oral argument to the Court. Every session of the various courts is presided over by a member of the faculty and the entire course of practice must be satisfactorily completed by every candidate for a degree. Attendance at the jury trials is compulsory for every student in the school, and a written report must be presented by each student upon each case tried. As there are about fifteen such cases per year, the graduate will have attended from forty to forty-five cases during his course and will thus have familiarized himself with the proper method of conducting jury trials. Interest is keen in the litigation and an atmosphere of serious attention pervades the work.

The school has two court rooms, each furnished with all the necessary equipment for the proper handling of litigated questions. Court Room No. 1 has a seating capacity of two hundred, and is provided with a large cherry bench, the original cost of which was $6,700; Court Room No. 2, which is used for equity proceedings, and the hearing of preliminary matters as well as for justice, probate and appellate work, is furnished with thirty-six swivel arm chairs and a smaller cherry bench. These court rooms owe their elaborate furnishings to a favorable contract made a few years ago with the County Commissioners of Douglas County from whom the furniture, fixtures and fittings of the seven court rooms in the old Douglas County Court House were secured.

PUBLIC SPEAKING, PARLIAMENTARY LAW AND CONTEMPORARY LEGISLATION

The course on Parliamentary Law, which is of obligation for all Freshmen, is intended to prepare the students for the work of the Model House, a miniature legislative assembly, which is organized along the lines of the National House of Representatives and the Lower House of the State Legislature.

At the close of the school-year a Speaker, Chief Clerk and Journal Clerk are elected by the students from among their number for the following year. These officers, in conjunction with the various committees appointed by the Speaker, are responsible for the work of the house. The course on Parliamentary Law is given by a member of the faculty who is also present at every meeting of the House to give his advice when appealed to.

Every student in the school must attend and participate in the work of the house. At the opening session, the Speaker announces the districts which the members are to represent and the committees to which the various bills introduced are referred. The Speaker presides at each session but turns the chair over to members of the Senior Class during the deliberations of the Committee of the Whole.

Each member of the upper classes is required to draft and introduce two bills at each session. The bills presented by the Seniors for discussion during the first half of the session must be prepared during the summer vacation for committee action shortly after school opens. As only subjects of importance in the field of contemporary legislation are considered, the Seniors in charge of the various bills obtain a great deal of experience at Committee meetings in the attempt to have bills moulded as they desire. This necessitates a careful study of the existing law and of the defects to be remedied and affords no end of valuable training in marshalling one's facts, and clearly presenting them in the attempt to persuade the committee to take the desired action.

All bills must pass through the hands of the Sifting Committee which selects those likely to prove most valuable for discussion. Once the selection is made, the designated bills are made special order for a particular day and three members of the House are appointed to support and three to oppose the measure. When their debate has closed, the bills are thrown open for general discussion and for such action as the members think fit.

The House as organized and conducted serves several very useful purposes: it gives opportunity for practicing parliamentary law; imparts a fair knowledge of contemporary problems in legislation; gives effective drill in committee work; teaches those who are to enforce the law the method by which laws are made; and provides incentive and opportunity for improving oneself in the art of public speaking.

LIBRARY FACILITIES

The library owned by the school comprises over 15,000 volumes and includes the following collections: Butterworth's Twentieth Century Statutes, English Statutes at Large, Encyclopedia of Laws of England, Law Reports Statutes, Evans Statutes, Chitty's English Statutes, Scot's Statutes; United States Statutes at Large, United States Compiled Statutes, 1913 and 1916 editions; Federal Statutes Annotated, first and second editions; United States Statutes Annotated; long runs of Session Laws and Statutes in Colorado, Connecticut, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New

In addition to the above named sets the Library contains over 1,300 volumes of standard text books on the various branches and topics of the law and 1,000 volumes of historical and miscellaneous legal material, among which are many original editions three hundred and four hundred years old.

Students have direct access to most of the books,—the others they may secure on ticket for use either in the library rooms or at home. About five thousand dollars a year is spent in the purchase of new books for the library. The importance of a working knowledge of law books is emphasized by the course on Legal Bibliography which is of obligation for every student. The purpose is to familiarize the class with the most thorough and quickest methods of securing the law upon a given point and to this end the lectures are supplemented by careful drill in the library. The preparation of trial briefs and of briefs on appeal in the Moot Courts affords additional opportunity for becoming acquainted with the books and experience shows that the facility thus gained is of very great practical value to the graduates.

In addition to this law library, the students may enjoy the use of the Omaha Public Library (two blocks distant from the school) containing more than one hundred thousand volumes.

ARRANGEMENT OF HOURS

The day course embraces three years of thirty-seven weeks each; the evening course four years of thirty-seven weeks each. The day lectures are given from Monday to Friday inclusive, beginning at eight o'clock in the morning and ending at ten, eleven, or twelve o'clock according to the schedule for the particular day; the evening lectures are given on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, beginning at 6:20 o'clock and ending at eight or eight-thirty o'clock, according to the schedule for the particular evening.

The sessions of Division No. 1 of the Moot Court and of the Model House are held on Friday evenings at eight-thirty o'clock. During the first part of the semester the meetings are devoted to the Moot

Court, and those during the latter part to the Model House. Attendance at these meetings is compulsory for all students. Committee meetings in connection with the Model House are subject to call of the Speaker.

The sessions of Division No. 2 of the Moot Court are held on Tuesday morning, and attendance is required on the part of the Seniors.

ADMISSION TO THE COLLEGE OF LAW

Graduates of recognized colleges requiring at least thirty high school credits for admission, will be received as candidates for the degree, as will also students who have satisfactorily completed one year's work in such a college in addition to four years of high school instruction.

Applicants, at least eighteen years old, who are not comprised in the above classes will be received in the evening classes but may not become an applicant for a degree.

The four-year High School course above referred to must include thirty credits, one credit being given for work in a High School subject of five recitations a week, of not less than forty minutes each, during a period of at least eighteen weeks.

In no event will an applicant be registered as a candidate for the degree until there has been filed in the office of the dean a proper certificate showing in detail the preliminary training of the student. Blank forms for this purpose are provided for the use of preparatory schools and colleges. Persons intending to register in the College of Law for the first time should make early application, on a blank which may be secured from the office. It is important that the application be filed as early as possible in order that proper credentials may be obtained from the preparatory schools and colleges before the student presents himself for matriculation. Intending applicants are urged to take as much History, English, Political Economy and foreign language as possible in preparation for the law course.

REGISTRATION

No new student may register for first semester credit after October 12th or for second semester credit after February 13th.

No former student may register more than ten days after the re-opening of classes in either semester.

ADVANCED STANDING

Students presenting proper credentials from law schools belonging to the Association of American Law Schools will be received as members of that class for which their previous training fits them, providing their preliminary education satisfies the demands of the school as outlined under the preceding section entitled "Admission." Students presenting proper credentials from law schools not members of the Association of American Law Schools will be admitted, upon examination, to that class for which their record shows them to be fitted. No credit will be given for office or correspondence study. In no event will advanced credit be given for more than two-thirds of the course required from students who have done all of their work in this school. No degree will be conferred upon any student who has not spent an entire school-year in the College of Law.

PRE-LEGAL STUDENTS

High school graduates who present satisfactory evidence of having earned thirty high school credits may register in the Freshman class of the College of Arts. No pre-legal students may take any instruction in law for credit. No tuition is charged in the College of Arts, but each student must provide his own books and pay an annual fee of fifteen dollars, covering the use of the gymnasium, admission to the University athletic events, and the Glee Club concerts, as well as a year's subscription to the Creighton Chronicle and the Creighton Courier.

COMBINED SIX-YEAR COURSE

Students who are able to satisfy the entrance requirements of the College of Arts may enroll for both the Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Law degrees. During their first two years in the University, only work of college grade may be carried, but during both the Junior and Senior years, one-half of the Freshman law course may be taken, the degree Bachelor of Arts being conferred at the end of the fourth year of successful work. During the last two years of the Six-Year Course, the students confine themselves to law studies, on satisfactory completion of which the degree Bachelor of Laws will be conferred.

ATTENDANCE

Attendance at ninety per cent of the work of each subject is required, but an additional ten per cent of absence will be excused for good cause upon proper showing. Students failing of the required attendance will be conditioned; the condition can be removed only by re-examination. The right to remove such condition in this manner rests within the discretion of the faculty. No student will be permitted to register as a regular member of the next higher class if he has more than two conditions against him, one condition being imposed for each failure to attain a passing grade in any subject, or to attend the required per cent of the work given.

The faculty reserves the right to sever any student's connection with the school whenever, in their judgment, such action is advisable. No tuition will be refunded on the departure of any student from the school, whatever the cause of his departure may be. However, students who leave because of illness will be credited with the unused portion of their tuition, which will be available on their return.

EXAMINATIONS

Written examinations are held at the end of each semester; students attaining a satisfactory grade will not be required to pass any other examination in the same subject matter, unless to remove a time condition. Students failing to attain a passing grade will be conditioned, the condition being removable by satisfactory re-examination during the following semester only; if the grade for a course be below sixty per cent, the student must repeat the subject in class. No student will be permitted to graduate until he has removed all conditions, or to advance to the work of the second or third year as a regular student, if there be two or more conditions against him, whether for failure in examination or lack of required attendance.

DEGREE

The degree Bachelor of Laws (LL. B.) is conferred upon:

1st. Students who, having satisfied the entrance requirements, have completed the full day course of instruction in the College of Law;

2nd. Those who, having been regularly admitted to advanced standing, have satisfactorily completed that part of the course for which they were not given credit on entrance.

TUITION AND FEES

The annual charge for instruction, including the use of a set of books, is One Hundred and Fifty Dollars in the Day Classes and One Hundred and Twenty-five Dollars in the Night Classes, payable as follows: Day, first semester, Eighty-five Dollars; second semester, Sixty-five Dollars. Night, first semester, Sixty-five Dollars; second semester, Sixty Dollars. Each student also receives without additional expense, a ticket giving him the use of the gymnasium, admission to the various University athletic and musical events, as well as a year's subscription to the University magazine and paper.

All bills are due and payable within ten days after the beginning of the particular semester. Students who wish to pay in installments may do so upon condition that all payments are made before the commencement of the semester examinations. Deferred payments will be subject to an additional charge of Five Dollars per semester. A special charge of Three Dollars will be made for late registration.

LIVING EXPENSES

Board and lodging may be had for $24.00 and upward per month, depending on the tastes of the individual. Suitable rooming places may be found within a ten minutes' walk of the school; meals may be obtained either by the week at nearby boarding houses, for about Five Dollars per week, or in the many restaurants and cafes of the city at prices varying with the patron's choice. Furnished rooms may be had at from Seven Dollars per month upward for one occupant, or Ten Dollars per month upward for two persons.

The cost of clothing, laundry, incidentals, board and room, need not be more than Three Hundred Dollars per year, but of course, will depend upon the habits of the individual.

SELF SUPPORT

Omaha affords such opportunities for student employment as are to be found in cities of its size, with this advantage that the student population bears a smaller proportion to the total number of inhabitants than in many college towns. The school is located near the heart of the city's retail mercantile and office-building section, where hundreds of people are employed at positions suitable for students. Alert, deserving, experienced men have, as a rule, little difficulty in finding a desirable place, at least after they have been on the ground for a few weeks. Intending students are cautioned, however, not to come empty-handed; the school does not guarantee positions, though it will be glad to help as much as possible. To this end, a Bureau of Information has been established for the free use of self-supporting students.

PRIZES AND HONORS

Through the kindness of Callaghan & Company of Chicago, a book prize, consisting of the Cyclopedic Law Dictionary is offered to that day Junior who attains the highest general average for his class, provided he also satisfies the attendance requirement. In 1917 this prize was awarded to James A. Griffin, of Sioux City, Iowa. On the same terms through the kindness of The American Law Book Company, there is offered to the leader of the graduating class, a prize consisting of a complete forty-volume set of the Cyclopedia of Law and Procedure with its annual annotations to date. Last year this prize was awarded to Mr. Leo J. Hanley of Butte, Montana.

The degree Cum Laude is conferred upon such members of the Senior class as attain a general average of ninety per cent or more, provided they have also satisfied the attendance requirement. In 1917 the Cum Laude degree was conferred upon Leo J. Hanley.

STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS AND ATHLETIC PRIVILEGES

The University Glee Club, Orchestra and Band are open to law students who desire to develop their musical talents. The Band appears at all of the foot ball games and the Orchestra and Glee Club give one or more formal as well as several informal concerts during the year.

Both the Delta Theta Phi and Gamma Eta Gamma Legal Fraternities have local chapters in the school. The 'Varsity Mixers' Club which has charge of all University dances and the 'Varsity Boosters' Club, which takes a prominent part in football demonstrations, are open to law students.

The new gymnasium recently completed on the Arts campus offers exceptional opportunities for health exercise and recreation as well as for participation in athletic events. The building and equipment cost about One Hundred and Forty Thousand Dollars. A physical director has charge of the gymnasium and will cheerfully co-operate with the students in enabling them to secure the utmost of advantage from this latest addition to the university facilities. Handball, squash, bowling, wrestling, boxing, running, jumping, billiards, swimming and aquatic contests, basket-ball, and the various other pastimes appropriate to a university gymnasium are amply provided for. Each student may receive a physical examination and expert advice as to the kind of exercise he needs, and, if adapted for the 'varsity sports, will be given a chance to compete for a place.

ADMISSION TO THE BAR

The Nebraska legislature of 1907 passed a bill permitting law schools approved by the Supreme Court to present their graduates for admission on motion without examination, provided that no school should be accorded this privilege which was not a member of the Association of American Law Schools. The following copy of a decree of the Nebraska Supreme Court, under date of December 3, 1907, is self-explanatory:

SUPREME COURT OF NEBRASKA.

September term, 1907.

Dec. 3.

In the Matter of the Creighton College of Law:

Now, on this third day of December, 1907, this matter having come on to be heard on the application of The Creighton University, and the showing filed in support thereof, the Court finds:

First—That Creighton College of Law is a department of The Creighton University.

Second—That said Creighton College of Law is a college of law in this state, having entrance requirements and a course of study equal and equivalent to those of the law school of the University of Nebraska.

Third—The said Creighton College of Law is a member of the Association of American Law Schools.

It is therefore considered and ordered by the Court that Creighton College of Law be, and the same hereby is designated as a college of law whose graduates shall be admitted to the bar without examination.

(Signed) S. H. SEDGWICK,

Chief Justice.

HISTORICAL SKETCH

The Creighton University, founded in 1878, takes its name from Edward Creighton, one of the pioneers of the West, who died intestate on November 5, 1874, leaving his wife, Mary Lucretia Creighton, his sole heir. Though free to use her fortune as she pleased, she determined to carry out the oft-expressed intention of her late husband to found a free college for boys, and in her will, dated September 23, 1875, she bequeathed One Hundred Thousand Dollars for this purpose "as a memorial of my late husband." Mrs. Creighton died on January 23, 1876.

Count John A. Creighton, brother of Edward, was one of the executors of Mrs. Creighton's will. Loyally discharging his trust, he watched the new institution gradually take form and became, in time, its largest benefactor, leaving it, on his death (which occurred February 7, 1907), with a substantial endowment and a plant comprising eight large buildings specially constructed for educational purposes.

The University, which was the outgrowth of the College, now includes The Creighton University High School, as well as Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Law, Medicine, Dentistry and Pharmacy. Thanks to the Creighton generosity, tuition is free in the High School and the College of Arts; the charges are moderate in the Professional schools. The University's enrollment, including the Summer Session, was 1,061 for the year 1918-1919; the alumni number about two thousand. Under the terms of the foundation the High School and College of Arts are open only to men, but the professional schools are co-educational. While the control of the University is vested in the Jesuits—one of the teaching orders of the Catholic Church—no distinction is made as to creed or race in any of the departments.

COLLEGE OF LAW

The College of Law was opened in 1904 in temporary quarters provided by the College of Medicine, and removed the following year to its present building, the Edward Creighton Institute, which was erected by the University for educational purposes and is now the home of the Colleges of Law and Dentistry.

The Creighton College of Law is a member of the Association of American Law Schools.

PURPOSE AND SCOPE

The object of the course offered is to fit the graduate for practice in any place where the common law prevails. While the historical development of the law is patiently traced, and due attention is paid to the cultivation of the so-called "legal-mind," the practical phase of the law is not forgotten, and no opportunity is lost to so prepare the students that they may, on graduation, engage successfully in the practice of their profession.

The teaching is for the most part in the hands of full-time men, but certain courses are taught by practitioners, thus insuring a well-balanced course, and the ideal of the school—effective preparation for the bar—is measurably attained. Emphasis is put upon the importance of careful daily work, and by frequent quiz, required attendance and written examinations, thoroughness is constantly inculcated. Intimate personal contact between teachers and students is encouraged. The policy of the school is to so prepare its students that they will have some idea of the genius of the common law, a love and a capacity for study, and an ethical standard which will encourage adherence to the best traditions of the bar. Latent qualities of leadership are developed and every opportunity is afforded the earnest student to make the most of his talents, not only for his own personal gratification and profit, but particularly for the welfare of his fellows.

The school is located a half block from the Douglas County Court House, where seven divisions of the District Court and the County Court are constantly in session; four blocks from the Federal Building, where the United States District Court holds its sessions, eight blocks from the Police Court, and within from one to two blocks of the Justice of the Peace and Municipal Courts. The students may therefore observe the practical workings of the law as exhibited in the trial of cases, the probate of estates, etc., and for those who find leisure, the many law offices of the city, most of them within two blocks of the school, afford still further opportunities for gaining a practical knowledge of the conduct of a law office.

Instruction is offered in both day and evening classes, the day course covering three years and the evening course four years. The evening classes, which have been in operation since September 1, 1909, do not lead to a degree but serve both to prepare for bar examinations and to give persons engaged in business those special helps which are to be found only in the law.

METHOD OF INSTRUCTION

The Case System is followed, though each teacher is free to adapt it in such a manner as will, in his judgment, prove most effective. For the most part the work is prescribed, though certain elections are allowed as shown on page 19.

Thoroughness is not sacrificed and due emphasis is put upon the importance of careful analysis, but neither is proper breadth overlooked, and the students are trained, as far as possible, in the whole body of the fundamental law. Exhaustive investigation of reliable source material is encouraged and scant courtesy is paid to mere assumption; the law is presented as a plastic body of principles capable of infinite variety both in statement and application, not as a hard and fast code to be memorized as if it were incapable of further development. As far as possible, the student is trained to rely upon his own industry and intelligence in discovering the law, and not to accept it upon the ipse dixit of the staff.

Mere method is not idealized and the law's content receives due emphasis to the end that the graduate may bring to his work as a practitioner not only a zeal for thoroughness and an intensely critical attitude toward arbitrary statement of the law, but also a working knowledge of the repositories of the law and of the practical methods by which legal wrongs are to be redressed. As far as may be, the lawyer's attitude and the atmosphere of court and office are given prominent place in the interest of efficiency; customary preparatory schoolroom methods, ideals and viewpoints do not prevail.

MOOT COURTS

A comprehensive system of Moot Courts is maintained and the various stages of litigation are illustrated. The class room instruction in Pleading, Trial Practice, Evidence, Criminal Procedure, Justice Practice and Probate Procedure is supplemented by required work in the practice courts which are divided into four sections: one devoted to Justice and Probate work; one to jurisdiction in chambers, equity trials and preliminary matters; one to the conduct of jury cases, both civil and criminal; and the other to the hearing of cases of appeal.

Justice and Probate work is assigned to the Juniors as attorneys, the cases being tried on prepared statements of fact. District Court cases are tried by the Seniors, with the Juniors acting as witnesses and the Freshmen as jurors. In the Appellate Court the Seniors sit as Associate Justices with a member of the Faculty presiding as Chief Justice; each Associate must write an opinion in two cases. cases are based on actual court records and are made to conform, as far as possible, to the reality. Pleadings are filed, process issued, motions and demurrers argued, witnesses examined, exhibits introduced, objections made, exceptions taken, instructions prepared, trial briefs written, and orders drawn for signature by the Judge of the Court. On appeal, each attorney is required to file a carefully written brief which he must supplement by oral argument to the Court. Every session of the various courts is presided over by a member of the faculty and the entire course of practice must be satisfactorily completed by every candidate for a degree. Attendance at the jury trials is compulsory for every student in the school, and a written report must be presented by each student upon each case tried. As there are about ten such cases per year, the graduate will have attended at least thirty cases during his course and will thus have familiarized himself with the proper method of conducting jury trials. Interest is keen in the litigation and an atmosphere of serious attention pervades the work.

The school has two court rooms, each furnished with all the necessary equipment for the proper handling of litigated questions.

PUBLIC SPEAKING, PARLIAMENTARY LAW AND CONTEMPORARY LEGISLATION

The course on Parliamentary Law, which is of obligation for all Freshmen, is intended to prepare the students for the work of the Model House, a miniature legislative assembly, which is organized along the lines of the National House of Representatives and the Lower House of the State Legislature.

At the close of the school-year a Speaker, Chief Clerk and Journal Clerk are elected by the students from among their number for the following year. These officers, in conjunction with the various committees appointed by the Speaker, are responsible for the work of the House. The course on Parliamentary Law is given by a member of the faculty who is also present at every meeting of the House to give his advice when appealed to.

Every student in the school must attend and participate in the work of the House. At the opening session, the Speaker announces the districts which the members are to represent and the committees to which the various bills introduced are referred. The Speaker presides at each session but turns the chair over to members of the Senior Class during the deliberations of the Committee of the Whole.

Each member of the upper classes is required to draft and introduce two bills at each session. The bills presented by the Seniors for discussion during the first half of the session must be prepared during the summer vacation for committee action shortly after school opens. As only subjects of importance in the field of contemporary legislation are considered, the Seniors in charge of the various bills obtain valuable experience at Committee meetings in the attempt to have bills moulded as they desire. This necessitates a careful study of the existing law and of the defects to be remedied and affords no end of helpful training in marshalling one's facts, and clearly presenting them in the attempt to persuade the committee to take the desired action.

All bills must pass through the hands of the Sifting Committee which selects those likely to prove most valuable for discussion. Once the selection is made, the designated bills are made special order for a particular day and three members of the House are appointed to support and three to oppose the measure. When their debate has closed, the bills are thrown open for general discussion and for such action as the members think fit.

The House as organized and conducted serves several very useful purposes: it gives opportunity for practicing parliamentary law; imparts a fair knowledge of contemporary problems in legislation; gives effective drill in committee work; teaches those who are to enforce the law the method by which laws are made; and provides incentive and opportunity for improving oneself in the art of public speaking.

LIBRARY FACILITIES

The Law Library contains over 18,000 volumes, comprising most of the American, English and Canadian Reports, together with an extensive collection of session laws and statutes of the various states of the United States and the provinces of Canada, together with the English Statutes. There are also files of all the important English and Canadian Legal Periodicals, in addition to an extensive collection of American Legal Periodicals. The text-book department contains several thousand volumes of the various editions of the standard texts. The collection of briefs contains an almost complete set of the briefs filed in the Supreme Court of Nebraska.

About five thousand dollars a year is spent in purchase of new books for the library. The importance of a working knowledge of law books is emphasized by the course in Legal Bibliography which is of obligation for every student. The purpose is to familiarize the class with the most thorough and quickest method of securing the law upon a given point and to this end the lectures are supplemented by careful drill in the library. The preparation of trial briefs and of briefs on appeal in the Moot Courts affords additional opportunity of becoming acquainted with the books and experience shows that the facility thus gained is of great practical value to the graduates.

The general library of the University is also open to those registered in the Law School. In addition, the students may enjoy the use of the Omaha Public Library (two blocks distant from the school) containing more than 100,000 volumes.

ARRANGEMENT OF HOURS

The school year is divided into three quarters. The day course embraces three years of thirty-seven weeks each; the evening course four years of thirty-seven weeks each. The day lectures are given from Monday to Friday inclusive, beginning at eight o'clock in the morning and ending at ten, eleven, or twelve o'clock according to the schedule for the particular day; the evening lectures are given on Monday to Friday, beginning at 6:20 o'clock and ending at eight or eight-thirty o'clock, according to the schedule for the particular evening.

The sessions of Division No. 1 of the Moot Court and of the Model House are held on Friday evenings at eight-thirty o'clock. During the first part of the semester the meetings are devoted to the Moot Court, during the latter part to the Model House. Attendance at these meetings is compulsory for all students. Committee meetings in connection with the Model House are subject to call of the Speaker.

ADMISSION

Applicants who present at least thirty hours of college credit, in addition to fifteen high school units, will be received as candidates for the degree. Other applicants, not thus qualified, will be received in the evening classes, but may not become applicants for degrees.

In no event will an applicant be registered as a candidate for the degree until there has been filed in the office of the Dean a proper certificate showing in detail the preliminary training of the student. Blank forms for this purpose are provided for the use of preparatory schools and colleges. Persons intending to register in the College of Law for the first time should make early application, on a blank which may be secured from the office. It is important that the application be filed as early as possible in order that proper credentials may be obtained from the preparatory schools and colleges before the student presents himself for matriculation. Intending applicants are urged to take as much History, English, Political Economy, and Foreign Language as possible in preparation for the law course.

ADVANCED STANDING

Students presenting proper credentials from law schools belonging to the Association of American Law Schools will be received as members of that class for which their previous training fits them, providing their preliminary education satisfies the requirement of the school as outlined under the preceding section entitled, "Admission." Students presenting proper credentials from law schools not members of the Association of American Law Schools will, in exceptional cases, be admitted to the junior class upon passing satisfactory examinations in Contracts, Torts and Real and Personal Property. No credit will be given for office or correspondence study.

PRELEGAL COURSES

On account of the higher requirements now obtaining in the law colleges of the United States, prelegal courses are provided in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, and it is urged that the prospective law student take three or four years of these courses in preparation for his law studies. Two kinds of programs are there given: one for students who wish to spend one or two years in preparatory work, not as candidates for an academic degree, but solely to equip themselves better for law studies; the other for students who enter as candidates for an academic degree, (A. B., B. S., Ph. B., Litt. B.) but expect afterwards to pursue a course in law.

II. PRELEGAL STUDENTS WHO ARE CANDIDATES FOR ACADEMIC DEGREES—THREE YEAR COURSE

When the prelegal student has chosen the degree for which he wishes to be a candidate, his program of studies will be so arranged that within three years he will be able to complete the subjects required for his prospective degree. The elective subjects may be chosen from the courses offered at the Law School.

FOUR YEAR COURSE

Candidates intending to spend four years in academic work will have their program of studies made up from the schedules given for the various academic degrees, the program differing according to the degree the student has in view.

EXAMINATIONS

Written examinations are held at the end of each quarter; students attaining a satisfactory grade will not be required to pass any other examination in the same subject matter, unless to remove a time condition. Students failing to attain a passing grade will be conditioned, the condition being removable by satisfactory re-examination during the following quarter only; if the grade for a course be below sixty per cent, the student must repeat the subject in class. No student will be permitted to advance to the work of the second or third year as a regular student, if there be two or more conditions against him, whether for failure in examinations or lack of required attendance.

DEGREE

The degree Bachelor of Laws (LL. B.) is conferred upon:

1st. Students who, having satisfied the entrance requirements, have completed the full day course of instruction in the College of Law.

2nd. Those who, having been regularly admitted to advanced standing, have satisfactorily completed that part of the course for which they were not given credit on entrance.

TUITION AND FEES

The annual charge for instruction, including the use of a set of books, is $150.00 in the Day Classes and $120.00 in the Night Classes, payable quarterly. Each student also receives, without additional expense, a ticket entitling him to the use of the gymnasium, admission to the various University athletic and musical events, as well as a year's subscription to the University magazine and paper.

All bills are due and payable within ten days after the beginning of the particular quarter. Students who wish to pay in installments may do so upon the condition that all payments are made before the commencement of the quarter examinations. Deferred payments will be subject to an additional charge of $3.00 per quarter. A special charge of $3.00 will be made for late registration.

LIVING EXPENSES

Board and lodging may be had for $24.00 and upward per month, depending on the tastes of the individual. Suitable rooming places may be found within a ten minutes' walk of the school; meals may be obtained either by the week at nearby boarding houses, for about $5.00 per week, or in the many resturants and cafes of the city at prices varying with the patron's choice. Furnished rooms may be had at from $7.00 per month upward for one occupant, or $10.00 per month upward for two persons.

The cost of clothing, laundry, incidentals, board and room, need not be more than $300.00 per year, but of course, will depend upon the habits of the individual.

SELF SUPPORT

Omaha affords such opportunities for student employment as are to be found in cities of its size, with this advantage that the student population bears a smaller proportion to the total number of inhabitants than in many college towns. The school is located near the heart of the city's retail mercantile and office-building section, where hundreds of people are employed at positions suitable for students. Alert, deserving, experienced men have, as a rule, little difficulty in finding a desirable place at least after they have been on the ground for a few weeks. Intending students are cautioned, however, not to come empty-handed; the school does not guarantee positions, though it will be glad to help as much as possible. To this end, a Bureau of Information has been established for the free use of self-supporting students.

STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS AND ATHLETIC PRIVILEGES

The University Glee Club, Orchestra and Band are open to law students who desire to develop their musical talents. The Band appears at all of the foot ball games and the Orchestra and Glee Club give one or more formal as well as several informal concerts during the year.

Both the Delta Theta Phi and Gamma Eta Gamma Legal Fraternities have local chapters in the school. The 'Varsity Mixers' Club, which has charge of all University dances, and the 'Varsity Boosters' Club, which takes a prominent part in football demonstrations, are open to law students.

The new gymnasium recently completed on the Arts campus offers exceptional opportunities for health exercise and recreation as well as for participation in athletic events. The building and equipment cost about One Hundred and Forty Thousand Dollars. A physical director has charge of the gymnasium and will cheerfully co-operate with the students in enabling them to secure the utmost of advantage from this latest addition to the university facilities. Handball, squash, bowling, wrestling, boxing, running, jumping, billiards, swimming and aquatic contests, basket-ball, and the various other pastimes appropriate to a university gymnasium are amply provided for. Each student may receive a physical examination and expert advice as to the kind of exercise he needs, and, if adapted for the 'varsity sports, will be given a chance to compete for a place.

ADMISSION TO THE BAR

The Nebraska legislature of 1907 passed a bill permitting law schools approved by the Supreme Court to present their graduates for admission on motion without examination, provided that no school should be accorded this privilege which was not a member of the Association of American Law Schools. The following copy of a decree of the Nebraska Supreme Court, under date of December 3, 1907, is self-explanatory:

SUPREME COURT OF NEBRASKA.

September term, 1907.

Dec. 3.

In the Matter of the Creighton College of Law:

Now, on this third day of December, 1907, this matter having come on to be heard on the application of The Creighton University, and the showing filed in support thereof, the Court finds:

First—That Creighton College of Law is a department of The Creighton University.

Second—That said Creighton College of Law is a college of law in this state, having entrance requirements and a course of study equal and equivalent to those of the law school of the University of Nebraska.

Third—The said Creighton College of Law is a member of the Association of American Law Schools.

It is therefore considered and ordered by the Court that Creighton College of Law be, and the same hereby is designated as a college of law whose graduates shall be admitted to the bar without examination.

> (Signed) S. H. SEDGWICK, Chief Justice.

COURSES IN OTHER DEPARTMENTS

Courses offered in other departments of the University are open to law students. Special attention is called to the opportunities offered in Modern Languages, History, Economics and Political Science.
